

Infuse your therapy comfortably at home.

Optum Infusion Pharmacy makes it easy.

Your infusion therapy can have a big impact on your daily routine. Some people find that infusing at home makes their lives easier.

Optum® Infusion Pharmacy gives you the choice to visit one of our infusion suites, or to infuse at home. Our clinical pharmacists and nurses provide safe and effective treatment with few interruptions to your life.

Benefits of Infusing at Home

In many cases, you can choose to have your infusions at home instead of a suite or doctor's office. Most insurance companies allow this.

Home infusion is safe and effective, and it can help you stay on track with therapy.¹ Depending on your circumstances, home infusions can also cost less going to a hospital or an outpatient infusion center.²

Infusing at home — with support from an expert partner — can be safe, convenient, and cost-effective.

With home infusion, you can:

- Save time and money by reducing travel
- Stay in the privacy and comfort of your home
- Reduce your out-of-pocket costs
- Take greater control of your infusion schedule
- Reduce exposure to infections
- Lower the impact on you and your family's daily routine

Optum Infusion Pharmacy helps you safely and confidently infuse at home.

Our experts tailor their support to your needs.
We will:

- Support you with nationwide in-home infusion nursing
- Coordinate care with your doctor and insurance plan
- Deliver the home infusion supplies you need
- Provide you with home infusion education
- Have a pharmacist available for your questions
- Help you find third-party financial assistance
- Help you meet insurance requirements and resolve issues with our expert appeals team

"I love having my infusions done at home instead of going to the hospital. I'm without a car, and I don't like putting people out."

— Theresa B., Crohn's and AS Patient
